Design choises week 4:

For this week, I have chosen to represent every country that lies within a specific region of the world with a specific type of green. I have chosen for green because it is a colour that is quite common on earth. The specific countries can be found by going over the data point with the mouse.